DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the means for pushing together the first and second plates upon release of the connecting elements must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 39 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 39 is not enabled since applicant's disclosure does not teach or enable one of ordinary skill in the art to determine how the plates are pushed together, as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 19 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Manabe et al. (U.S. 4,194,411).

Manabe discloses a force transmission element wherein:

a first impact plate (Figs. 5-6, Element 2a (part of support member that is plate shaped), a second impact plate (Element 1 or 11) having multiple plate parts (note in fig. 5-6, Element 1 and 11, showing both parts i.e. front and back part), a connecting element interconnecting the multiple plate parts (length wise portion of element 1 going from front to back that breaks in figure 5), and bars (element arranged between the impact plates to ensure transmission of force between the impact plates (bolts element 5), wherein the connecting element is releasable to permit the plate parts to be pushed apart when the severity of an impact on at least one of the impact plates exceeds a certain limit (it is releasable when element 11 breaks). Note figure 5, is referred to for purposes of showing the release / rupture of the elements.

With respect to claim 23, as discussed above the element is releasable through material failure (i.e. where it ruptures).

Regarding the interpretation of the claim the applicant should note that a preamble is generally not accorded any patentable weight where it merely recites the purpose of a process or the intended use of a structure, and where the body of the claim does not depend on the preamble for completeness but, instead, the process steps or structural limitations are able to stand alone. See, In re Hirao, 535 F.2d 67, 190 USPQ 15 (CCPA 1976) and Kropa v. Robie, 187 F.2d 150, 152, 88 USPQ 478, 481 (CCPA 1951). Here, based on the above claim this situation appears to be the case.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manabe et al. (U.S. 4,194,411) in view of Duval et al. (U.S. Pub. 2002/0020999 A1). Manabe does not specifically teach the use of a connecting element that is pyrotechnically releasable as opposed to being releasable through material failure. Duval discloses the use of a pyrotechnic release mechanism (Figs. 5-6, Elements 34 and 46, which release a coil 21 in the event of a vehicle impact and further allows control of the actuator to be accomplished based on a variety of factors / parameters including vehicle speed and driver characteristics (Pg. 1, Para. 0003 and 0011). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Manabe, so as to utilize a system wherein the release element is pyrotechnically releasable in view of Duval, instead of the mechanical failure release means taught by Manabe, use of the system taught of Duval would be desirable based on the ability to better optimize force transmission characteristics for a variety of accident situations.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 26, 31, and 37-39 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 19, 22-23, 26, 31, and 37-39 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

10. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
